FOURTH EDITION

Mrs. Trask's New Novel

THE INVISIBLE BALANCE SHEET

By KATRINA TRASK

Author of "In the Vanguard," "King Alfred's Jewel," etc.

Cloth. 12mo. $1.40 net.

"From beginning to end 'The Invisible Balance Sheet' is clever. It is full of sheer sparkle. It has an alert and attractive timeliness. Its gayety is delicious. And alongside of its gayety it has no little real loveliness. But its psychology remains, of course, the novel's chief claim to value. * * * In the simplicity and force of its narrative it brings home its theme, its warnings, its complexity, its hope with a directness and a human sympathy that give it high rank as a story—a story of marked significance." —New York Times.

"Humor, a sense of the timeliness of things and a very real interest in the problems of the day are elements which we expect to find in the work of Katrina Trask. * * * In her new novel * * * her people talk much as the people of real life talk of the Mexican situation and of the European war. * * * The most significant part of the book lies * * * in the very natural and realistic pictures of society life and the dialogue which the author has introduced and handles with great skill."

"There is a great deal of delicious humor in the story and also a great deal of the deep-down philosophy of life."
—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Around the central theme of our life to-day—money — Mrs. Trask has woven with deft hand an enthralling story of love and mammon."—Boston Globe.

A SPARKLING THEATRICAL NOVEL

THE GAY LIFE

By Keble Howard

Author of "Merry Andrew," "Forked Lightning," etc.

Mr. Keble Howard is well known as a dramatist, theatrical manager, critic, actor, producer and the editor of "The Sketch," a semi-theatrical publication, therefore he may claim to know something of the stage. He shows up particularly the good, honest, fighting, struggling, despairing, philosophical rough-and-tumble of the provinces, where many a fine actor and actress lives and works, utterly unknown to the London public. But they do live! And they do love! And they do laugh! And leader of them all in this story of living, loving and laughing, is Jilly Nipchin, who made her stage debut by turning cartwheels and reached the climax of her career as a "great English Comedienne" on an American stage. *12mo. Torchy Gets Married

Congratulations are in order to Torchy, bright star of office boys, who after long years and many adventures has at last won and wed the lovely Vee. Thousands of readers who have alternately laughed and despaired over this dilatory love affair will rejoice that he has at last taken the plunge.

Enjoyment of Torchy's career, brilliant though it be, will not, however, dim our appreciation of the performance of Sewell Ford's imagination in keeping Torchy going all this time. It is ten years since the red-headed office boy first burst into print—ten years in which his vocabulary never slowed down and his pranks never grew dull. This is a notable entry in the long distance fiction record of the world.

Most popular characters, like Emma McChesney, tarry but long enough to win their places in our affections and then go to that long sleep which awaits even the liveliest of heroines when their author's imagination gives out. J. Rufus Wallingford has been with us since 1908, a record which runs neck and neck with Torchy's, though lovers of the great American office boy will point out that Wallingford's appearances have been limited to monthly periodicals, while Torchy bobbed up cheerfully every two weeks.

Probably the world's record in fiction endurance is held by Sherlock Holmes. He solved his first mystery in 1887 and kept Great Britain free of criminals continuously from that time until 1905, with a resurrection in 1914 in "The Valley of Fear," which was a souvenir of Conan Doyle's visit to America.

We detect in the growing Penrod a formidable rival to these masters; but that need not worry Torchy for some years to come, though the boy undoubtedly has it in him to make trouble for the champion in the future.

The delightful thing about Torchy, and the triumph of Sewell Ford, is that he, like Peter Pan, never grew up. To the very hour of the wedding ceremony he was as pert, as merry and as resourceful as when he first poked his blazing thatch into Old Hickory's inner sanctum. Any hero can grow up and fill ten years of stories if he will consent to earn a fortune, experiment with a chorus girl or two, lose his soul in corporation politics, find it again in the love of his growing son and settle down to a peaceful old age, writing the history of the Middle West.

Torchy never accepted any of these props to adventure, and this is at once his charm and his limitation. It probably accounted for Sewell Ford's unwillingness to let the boy take the matrimonial plunge, but it also aroused in ten thousand loyal breasts a certain uneasiness concerning their hero. He was successful enough in managing other people's affairs; why was it he could make so little progress with Vee? Ten years is a long apprenticeship in a country where all office boys marry the millionaire's daughter as a matter of course.

Now that he has at last taken the fatal step, or, as he himself put it, moved from the juvenile department into the men's sizes, thousands of readers will wish him godspeed—though it remains, of course, to be seen what effect matrimony will have on his vocabulary. However, married or unmarried, here's to Torchy and his good red hairs—may they never grow less!

Two Charming "Heart" Studies

THE HEART OF WASHINGTON

A heart study of the man, Washington, pictured by a series of anecdotes and reminiscences, each detail of which has been chosen for the purpose of showing why the "Father of his Country" was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." The stories are arranged in chronological order, and joined with a connecting thread of interest so that the little volume possesses a certain biographical aspect. In the stories themselves, the human side of Washington is well portrayed.

THE HEART OF LINCOLN

In a fashion similar to that of "The Heart of Washington," the author in this volume shows the warm affection, the ready sympathy and the big all-embracing heart of "The Martyr President." As in the companion volume, the anecdotes are arranged in chronological order, giving them a biographical value. Humor and pathos are evenly blended.

Both of these volumes are especially appropriate not only for Lincoln's Birthday and Washington's Birthday, but for St. Valentine's Day as well, instead of the customary cards. Your order will be filled immediately upon its receipt.

Both volumes uniformly bound; with frontispiece, 16mo. Cloth. Each 75c. net.

THE REQUEST OF THE BOARD OF TRADE

THE Board of Trade of the American Booksellers' Association in passing the resolution proposed by Charles E. Butler of Brentano's, Chairman of the Board, is entering slowly and soberly, upon a campaign which has for its ultimate aim nothing less than the absolute abolition of direct sales of books by publishers and jobbers. The project seems a good deal of the David and Goliath sort; and the analogy would be even more apt were it not that publishers and retailers are not enemies but friends.

The booksellers, as we understand it, are not "demanding" a right, tho they believe they might very well do so; they do not plan coercive measures, tho they believe that strenuous action would be justified; they do intend to outline the only basis on which they believe enduring book-trade prosperity is possible, and to present that trade conception to the publishers so clearly and forcibly that the latter cannot fail to be convinced of its truth.

The present situation as the booksellers see it—and the Board of Trade is in this case voicing the opinion and wishes of an overwhelming majority of the retail book-trade of the country—is at one with the proverbial attempt to carry water on both shoulders. In their essence retail selling by the bookseller and "direct" selling by the publisher are not complementary, as some publishers would have us believe, but—so say the booksellers—incompatible, inimical and indeed mutually destructive. The publisher who thinks he can continually swell his mailing list and mail order sales by the exercise of every plan he can devise and at the same time assist in the strengthening and growth of an efficient and comprehensive retail book-trade is, according to the booksellers, living in a fool's paradise and subject to a most dangerous delusion. The booksellers are sure that every sale made by a publisher direct weakens the retail trade; that every dollar spent in direct circularization means a dollar less for retail advertising; that every effort made by the publisher to stimulate direct business, and every success resulting from that effort, means just so much less stimulus given to trade development thru accepted retail channels.

Of course few publishers admit the truth of any of these contentions. Tho there may be one or two who "believe, sincerely and wholeheartedly," as the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY put it four years ago, "that the retail book business of the country is going to the dogs," that retail book dealers are moribund agencies whom no amount of encouragement or suggestion will galvanize into selling efficiency, and that the quickest road to publishing success is via the mail-order route, they are in a very small minority. But if these out-and-out disbelievers in the retail book system are very few, there are several publishers who believe and do not hesitate to say that, tho the retailer should be encouraged, "direct business" does bring bigger returns.

It seems difficult, on the other hand, to deny the publisher the right and advisability of dealing directly with customers in certain instances. There are many bookbuyers remote from local bookstores. There are other bookbuyers whom the retail bookseller, try as he may, is unable for special reasons to handle. Some business comes to every publisher unsolicited that no retailer could well have secured; what, he asks, is he to do with it? Other direct business he may, legitimately and wisely, seek, of which no retailer has knowledge, nor, having knowledge, could secure efficiently.

Yet, if we are entirely honest with ourselves, we have to admit probably that direct selling, however excusable in specific instances, does tend to undermine the retail trade. And, if we are sincere in our belief in the system of selling at retail upon which the book-trade is founded, then we must in all honesty seek for practical methods looking eventually toward the elimination of mail-order selling rather than its encouragement.

Some publishers, and among them houses than whom, we believe, the book-trade has no sincerer friends, sell more of their output direct than thru the trade; many other houses for obvious reasons reap larger net profits from this business, smaller in volume tho it be. We do not think that it is the sober wish of the retail book-trade—to say nothing of its expectation—that these book publishers shall forthwith give up at the trade's request the larger or more profitable portions of their businesses. The supposition is absurd on its face. But the retail trade, according to the purport of the resolution just adopted, does ask that book publishers doing an increasing mail order business consider with the utmost seriousness whither the emphasis they place on this portion of their business is gradually leading them and the trade at large.

The booksellers ask in short that this whole question of retail bookselling be looked at fairly and squarely; they claim that either it is a system to be honestly and wholeheartedly encouraged and built up, or frankly discarded for something better. Not that we ourselves see any danger of the latter alternative; for the movement to hold up the hands of the retailer is far wider than the book-trade. In fact, the whole tendency of selling methods in the last decade in every line of merchandizing has been to strengthen the retailer, to make his business more profitable for him, to increase the number of retail stores. More and more manufacturer and wholesaler are coming to see that their selling problem is primarily one of retail distribution, that if their products have an adequate number of prosperous retail outlets their merchandising problem is simplified, if not completely solved.

Twenty years ago, commented the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY in the same editorial from which we have already quoted, the attitude of a large majority of the manufacturers of trade-marked goods was not one of interested co-operation with the retailer. Many an advertising solicitor and agency in these early years of advertising, many a periodical publisher, had come face to face with the spectacular rise of the mail-order house and the rapid spread of "direct selling" methods, to look down upon the unfortunate retailer, to ignore his legitimate complaints and to view him generally as "the relic of a passing economic phase."

"The change came when a half-dozen big advertising producers, impelled by the complaints received from their travelers and the growing demoralization in their trades, commenced to make the retailer's profit their lookout. Somewhat to their own surprise, they found his complaints generally justified and his suggestions often helpful and sound. Still more surprising they found that long denied concessions in terms, increased advertising to the trade, and increased expenditure in dealer plans and co-operation all repaid their cost many-fold in greatly stimulated sales. The retailer is hardly yet a pampered individual; but every large up-to-date advertiser selling thru the trade at all is now building his selling plans around him and catering, to every reasonable extent, to his wishes. Methods of cultivating the local dealer have quite usurped the place of straight advertising as the subject matter for articles in such significant periodicals as Advertising and Selling and Printers' Ink. Never was advertising to the trade more carefully considered or more profuse, and never did trade journalism itself stand on a higher plane.

"One of the most important general magazines in a recent advertising talk went so far as to say that the retailer is 'in the strategic position' in the distributive field; and that 'whether he be the proprietor of the giant department store, of the general store of the village or of the small shop in the city, he virtually commands the situation.' That is surely a pretty sweeping admission."

But we believe that the ancient dictum "where the treasure is there will the heart be also" is not only not discredited to-day, but also is true in its converse form: wherein the heart is put, there also is the reward. "If the retail outlets of a trade are to be strong and efficient merchandising outlets for the wholesaler he must give them his sincere and undivided support. The retailer cannot stand alone. The publisher who goes thru the motions of supporting the retail bookseller while throwing all his enthusiasm and interest into his mail order department need not be surprised if his trade department 'does not show returns.' Has he any right to complain if dealers 'are apathetic'? The wonder, under the circumstances, would be if they were not."

We do not believe, as we said before, that the retail book-trade asks or expects the impossible. It does ask, as we see it, a slight but genuine change of viewpoint and emphasis, a change only seemingly slight, however, because it is bound to have ultimately most far reaching and significant results.

BOOKSELLERS' BOARD OF TRADE ATTEMPTS SOLUTION OF DIRECT SALE PROBLEM.

EARLY last fall the Board of Trade of the American Booksellers' Association, on the initiative of its chairman, Charles E. Butler of Brentano's, set in motion an attempt to investigate and after investigation possibly to solve the problem of combating the growing sale of books by publishers and jobbers direct to consumers. Questions of price and discount were not involved in this investigation, the more basic question of selling at retail at all by manufacturers in competition with their own retailers being the one under discussion.

Mr. Butler's original draft for a resolution of the Board on the point, which formed the basis of the Board's discussion, was reprinted in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for October 7, 1916.

After listening to several able reports covering at length the various phases of the question and extended discussion of them, it was finally decided to refer the matter to a special committee empowered to draft a final form of resolution. This committee, consisting of Louis L. Keating of Loeser's, E. Byrne Hackett of the Brick Row Book Shop, New Haven, and Fremont Rider of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, held several meetings, Mr. Butler acting as chairman, and finally reported its resolution to a meeting of the full Board last Tuesday.

As finally adopted by the Board the resolution reads:

"Whereas: the practice of selling books at retail by publishers and jobbers has become increasingly prevalent of recent years and has already weakened the American book trade and, if continued in, threatens its eventual destruction; and

"Whereas: in every line of merchandising the present tendency in trade in this country is toward a strict and mutually exclusive delimitation of the functions respectively of manufacturer, jobber and retailer; and

"Whereas: publishers, tho led into the practice of selling at retail largely by tradition and by the generally admitted inadequacy of retail distribution in the book-trade, do, we believe, sincerely deplore any necessity for so doing and are desirous of doing everything in their power to strengthen retail distribution by making it more widespread and more effective—

"Now therefore, we, the Board of Trade of the American Booksellers' Association, representing, directly or indirectly, the practically unanimous sentiment of the retail booksellers of the country, respectfully ask that you as a publisher do your utmost to correct the abuse complained of to the end that as far as and as soon as possible the sale of your books be confined to merchants who sell books for profit, having a place of sale and a stock of books, and that the sale of your books to the consumer direct, may be completely discontinued; and that you do everything further in your power to put the book-trade in the sound position which is predicated on the basic separation of the function of publisher, jobber and retailer outlined above;

"And we ask furthermore, that immediately, in line with this ultimate end sought, you, if you do not already do so, will insert the words 'Postage Extra,' or an equivalent phrase, upon all your advertising and circular matter, and in all cases where in print the prices of your books are quoted to the buying public; that in all your advertising or circular matter addressed to the buying public you insert the phrase 'For Sale at Your Bookseller's,' or an equivalent; and that in your place or places of business you post a suitable sign or placard, conspicuously placed, bearing the words 'No Goods Sold at Retail,' or their equivalent."

AMERICAN PUBLISHER TELLS OF BOOK-TRADE CONDITIONS ABROAD

THOMAS B. WELLS, secretary of Harper & Brothers, one of the few American publishers to make the rounds of the foreign book and author markets this winter, returned on Tuesday on the Rochambeau. Mr. Wells has been in England and France for the past two months completing the centennial year arrangements of his house, and his swing around the literary circuit of England, and to a lesser extent of France, gave him a good opportunity to size up the conditions of publishing and authorship abroad.

Members of the large English publishing firms told Mr. Wells that they have done a good business during the past year, despite adverse conditions. Paper has been a leading problem, showing in many cases a 100 to 150 per cent. increase, but almost equally difficult has been the problem of getting sheets thru the bindery. This last is a question of labor, most of the men having been mobilized and the women workers not yet having taken up work on binding machinery.

There probably will be fewer books in the next year or two by well-known English authors—that is, if the war continues. But the author is not suffering. With a few notable exceptions the sale of the new six-shilling novel has not been so large as heretofore; sales of the one-shilling edition, however, have been exceedingly large, and these editions have a great vogue on the Continent and thruout the entire English-speaking world. One interesting development is that they have replaced the Tauchnitz editions familiar to travelers before the war. The Tauchnitz edition of books in English on the Continent promises to be relatively unknown after the war, according to Mr. Wells.

While the big London publishers are getting along fairly well, the small publisher is not bringing out any new books, merely selling those he has on hand. The reason is that he has not the capital to put into the risk of new books. In many cases, too, among the better-known firms practically all the members are at the front or in government service of some sort. In one case Mr. Wells found that two of the partners had gone to the front and the remaining one was at his desk in uniform.

England, too—more slowly than this country, but none the less surely—has reached and passed the war-book saturation point. The market has been flooded and some fingers burned, and the English publisher is shy about bringing out new war books.

In France the production of war books has been as great as in England, and the work is of a much higher average of literary quality. Some of this has been fiction and some, in the form of journals and letters from officers and privates at the front, is remarkably picturesque. Many of these books have already been translated and many more should be given to American readers. As in England, many of the leading French writers and journalists are at the front. Unhappily, some of the most prominent have been killed.

"Curiously enough," Mr. Wells says, "in England I found that the high-class magazine, like Harper's, Blackwood's and the Cornhill, had been doing well during the war. Some of the popular-priced magazines have had a hard time. One class has been particularly successful, that which devotes itself entirely to the war, either seriously or in the way of picture and caricature more after the fashion of the French publications."

An interesting feature of the English situation is the extent to which the authors are sharing in the work of defense. Men beyond the military age, like Sir Gilbert Parker, have abandoned their own work entirely and are devoting all their time to government work. One prominent English author turns over all his royalty receipts—and they are large—to various war charities. Mrs. Humphry Ward is doing much important propaganda work for the government. John Masefield is connected with the English Red Cross. W. L. George is at work every day in the War Office like any clerk. He is doing most important work. Arnold Bennett, too, has been busy writing for the government. H. G. Wells has done and continues to do a great deal of propaganda work. Anthony Hope spends his entire time at Wellington House, London, which is the headquarters of British propaganda. Among the other writers who are still in London are May Sinclair, J. D. Beresford, Mrs. Belloc-Lowndes and Elizabeth Robins. Each and every one of them is doing some sort of war work.

1916 BOOK-TRADE STATISTICS

Compiled by FREDERICK M. LEONARD, Secretary of the Typo Mercantile Agency

THE elements of hesitation and doubt which had been manifest in the book-trade during 1914 and 1915 were very largely overcome during the year 1916, due to the easy money conditions existing in almost every section of the country. Altho the situation was complicated by abnormal production costs, most publishers, by increased prices, showed a favorable trade balance in a market that was for the most part strong and buoyant. Retailers have shown advancement, except in those places where underlying conditions precluded proper merchandising. Failures and readjustments were not above normal, and considering the stress of previous years which had added their burden of liability, the trade, taken as a unit, carried its maturing obligations with satisfaction. The total volume of business for the year was generally somewhat better.

The Typo Mercantile Agency has, thru its revision department, compiled the above table of statistics.

During the year sixty new members were enrolled by the Typo Mercantile Agency. The weekly confidential bulletins issued have contained 3658 separate items of failures, bankruptcies, changes of interest, meeting of creditors and judgments. On January 2 and July 1 the semi-annual credit books were issued. In each book more than 15,000 individual changes were made in order to keep the edition up to the standard. The secretary of "Typo" is upon the board of directors of three publishing houses in New York City in a credit advisory capacity.

A NEW DISPLAY COUNTER ARRANGEMENT THAT IMPROVES THE BOOKSTORE

THE bookstore interior is, of course, rigidly determined within certain limits by the physical character of the building in which the store is housed. Some limitations—and only the dealer who occupies rented property realizes how numerous they can be—can be overcome by the installation of different fixtures or by a general rearrangement of old ones, while other difficulties simply have to be put up with in patience. One of the hardest problems in a business like bookselling which makes generous use of display counters is to keep the counters from monopolizing the entire store, robbing it of any appearance of spaciousness and at times like Christmas intensifying the congestion. Especially acute is this problem in the long, narrow store, where all customers enter or leave by one door reached by but one or at most two narrow aisles.

The "orthodox" counter arrangement in such a store has been to have long counters in the middle of the floor running the length of the store. There may be occasional narrow breaks for the convenience of clerks, but customers are forced in the main to stick to the central aisle, and around Christmas time this aisle becomes an elbowing crowd, by no means in the spirit of the quiet browser after gifts. Another difficulty with this arrangement is that the counter displays bear no relation and do not lead the customer's attention naturally to the real stock ranged on shelves down the sides of the store.

Confronted with this double problem, Johnson's Bookstore in Springfield, Mass., recently adopted, at the suggestion of John J. Wood, of Burrows Bros., Cleveland, an adaptation of a counter arrangement which is in successful operation in certain of the newer stores, including the Burrows Bros. store. The change consisted in taking out the long center counters and installing a series of small transverse counters separated by aisles, as shown in the accompanying cut.

"This small counter arrangement was decided upon," the Johnson people explain, "for the purpose of making displays of goods which were contained in the shelf section back of the counters, and for the further purpose of bringing the customers out of the main aisle into the smaller aisles between the counters to look at the displays there. This purpose served admirably during the holiday season, and we think the counters fully justified themselves. The displays that we make on them are made flat; and the general arrangement of the counter is such that we have the fiction in the front of the store; then counters for miscellaneous displays, and the juveniles further down the aisle. The shelves underneath the counter are used for surplus stock and to fill the counters with. These can also be readily seen by the customers, and they often look thru these shelves on the under side of the counter."

EDWARD J. O'BRIEN PICKS BEST SHORT STORIES OF 1916

Edward J. O'Brien recently published in the Boston Evening Transcript his annual summary of the best short stories appearing in American magazines during 1916. The American short story, Mr. O'Brien says, by way of introduction, cannot be reduced to a literary formula, and if we are to measure its progress at all, it must be, as Mr. Chesterton once happily phrased it, with a growing reed. In the past it has been a frequent comment on our literature and our life to find that its interpretation in the hands of our writers was less individual and more standardized than in other countries. But during the past few years a new spirit in fiction has been making itself felt and spreading itself in many directions thruout the country. Our artists are beginning to think of life wholly in terms of the individual, and to substitute the warmth of the individual in place of the generalized and sentimentalized types to which our American public has been so wholeheartedly accustomed.

Mr. O'Brien has endeavored in his selection to choose those stories possessing "the essential human qualities in our contemporary fiction which, when chronicled conscientiously by our literary artists, may fairly be called a criticism of life" and which "render life imaginatively in organic substance and artistic form." With this standard of criticism in mind, he has found among the 2700 short stories which he examined during the year 828 possessed of "distinction," 419 of "high distinction," and 179 of "more or less permanent literary value"; 69 of these last are by foreign authors.

Mr. O'Brien's ranking of the various periodicals is as follows, the figures at the left indicating the percentage of stories of distinction printed, those at the right indicating the actual number of stories of distinction printed:

1.	Scribner's Magazine	80%	44
2.	Century	76	45
3.	Harper's Magazine	68	65
4.	Bellman	68	23
5.	Masses	66	19
6.	Everybody's Magazine	64	23
7.	Metropolitan Magazine	58	23
8.	American Magazine	48	31
9.	Pictorial Review	39	22
10.	Collier's Weekly	34	45
11.	Life	34	9
12.	Ladies' Home Journal	33	17
13.	Delineator	33	12
14.	Southern Woman's Magazine	33	10
15.	Every Week	29	26
16.	Sunset Magazine	26	7
17.	Saturday Evening Post	24	48
18.	Illustrated Sunday Magazine	22	11
19.	Woman's Home Companion	21	10
20.	McClure's Magazine	20	12
21.	McBride's Magazine	19	7
22.	American Sunday Magazine	18	6

The short stories published by Wilbur Daniel Steele during the past year have, in the opinion of Mr. O'Brien, placed him with Katharine Fullerton Gerould at the head of his fellow artists. The two most distinctive new writers who have published short stories this year are Francis Buzzell and Sherwood Anderson.

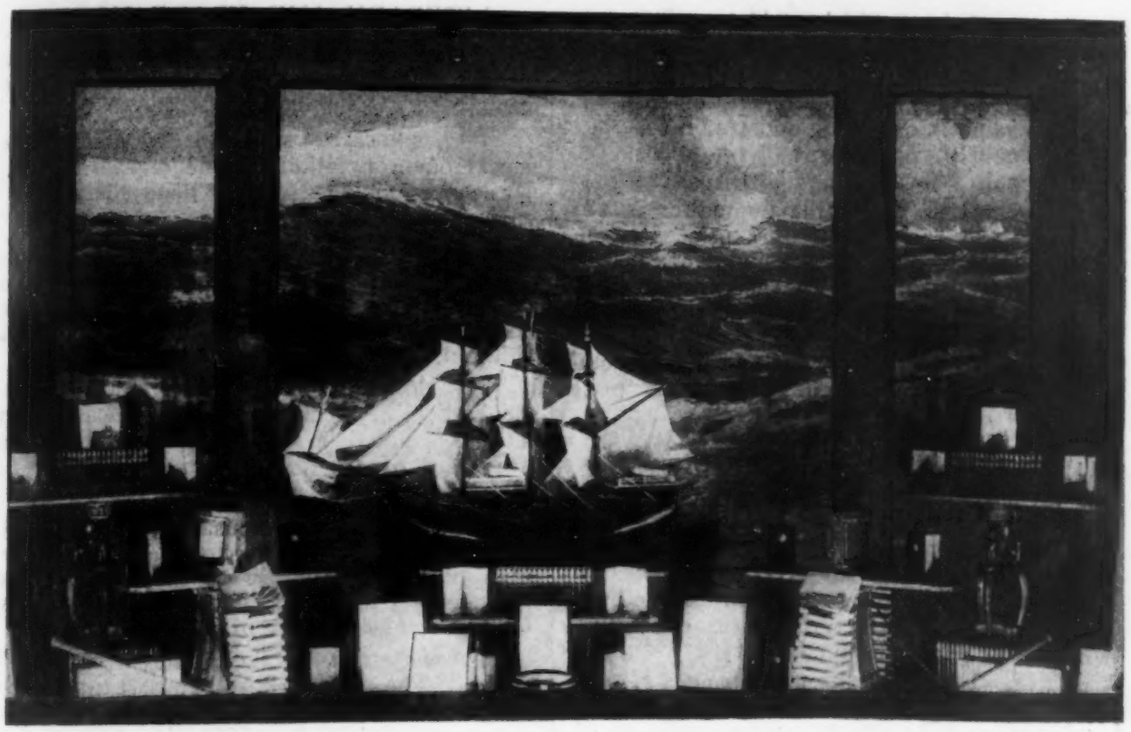
POSTAL NOTES

BILL WOULD PROVIDE FOR FREE RETURN OF UNDELIVERED POST CARDS

Mr. Doolittle has introduced into the House a bill (H. R. 19938) providing: "That hereafter undelivered single postal cards and post cards bearing the address of the sender shall be returned to the sender without payment of



KIPLING-CONRAD DEEP SEA WINDOW, LORD & TAYLOR BOOK SHOP, NEW YORK

The background panels were painted specially for this window by Arthur Covey. The books displayed are the blue leather Conrad and the red leather Kipling. A mariner's compass, port and starboard riding lights and marine telescopes (said to have been used on Nelson's flagship, the "Victory") gave added atmosphere. This is one of the famous Lord & Taylor windows that are dressed in the basement and moved into place like elevators.

postage, subject to the same regulations as letter mail."

BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATIONS

PLANS FOR LADIES' NIGHT OF NEW YORK BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE

THE February dinner of the New York Booksellers' League will be Ladies' Night, and the trade should note especially that both the day and place of meeting have been changed: the day will be Tuesday, the 13th, not Wednesday, as usual, and the place of the dinner will be the Aldine Association, in the Fifth Avenue Building, 200 Fifth Avenue, corner Fifth Avenue and 23d Street.

In addition to a good dinner and good speakers, there will be dancing and a "Betty Wales" dress will be awarded the best lady dancer.

Regular tickets will be sent the members of the league as usual. Guest tickets for ladies will be two dollars, and members are asked to secure them in advance, whenever possible, from the treasurer, W. T. Haskell, 354 Fourth Avenue.

PITTSBURGH BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

THE Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association held their seventeenth annual banquet on Tuesday evening, January 30, in the handsome blue room of the new William Penn Hotel. President George H. Alexander presided as toastmaster.

An orchestra played thruout the dinner, and Bert Mustin's Highland Quartette lead the singing, in which the members of the association and their guests joined heartily.

The principal speaker was Dr. Lucius H. Bugbee, whose address on "Some Paradoxes of Life" sparkled with wit as he called attention to the fact that the poorest man is sometimes the richest, and the child builds with broken boards and rusty nails a palace more magnificent than that of the most opulent potentate.

He was followed by J. J. Tindale, well known from his long connection with Corlies Macey Co., of New York; Thomas S. McCrae, of the American Lead Pencil Co.; Paul Fera, representing A. W. Faber; I. P. Denison, of the National Blank Book Co.; Z. W. Barnard, of the Cowell & Hubbard Co., Cleveland; A. C. Rippier, representing Henry Bainbridge & Co.; and last, but by no means least, the dean of protected prices, Mr. Lewis E. Waterman..

One of the surprises of the evening was the fine dialect readings of Mr. Theodore Born.

COMMUNICATIONS

A NEW METHOD FOR DETERMINING THE SELLING PRICE OF AN ARTICLE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13, 1917.

Editor THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

I wish to submit for publication the following simple method of determining at what price an article should be sold to gain a certain percentage of profit on selling price:

To gain 1/3 on selling add 1/2 on cost.
To gain 1/4 on selling add 1/3 on cost.
To gain 1/5 on selling add 1/4 on cost.
To gain 1/6 on selling add 1/5 on cost.
To gain 1/7 on selling add 1/6 on cost.

In every case where the numerator is (1) subtract one from the selling price fraction denominator to find cost fraction denominator. If the numerator is two subtract two. If three, subtract three, and so on. Thus, in case one wishes to gain 37 per cent. on selling price, subtract 37 from denominator 100=63, and 37/63 added to cost will give selling price desired.

SCOTT BALLARD.

[But suppose one wishes to gain 100 per cent. on the selling price, or 200 per cent.?—ED. PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.]

OBITUARY NOTES

CHARLES B. BUTLER, president of the well known book manufacturing firm of Butler, Ward Company, died on January 25.

WILLIS E. BLOOMFIELD, manager of the Chicago office of Houghton Mifflin Company, and for over twenty years an employee of that firm, died on January 18.

PERSONAL NOTES

VAN WYCK BROOKS has severed his connection with the Century Co. to join the staff of The Seven Arts.

GEORGE S. GOODWIN, manager of the Curtiss Philosophic Book Co. of Philadelphia, has severed his connections with that concern.

S. S. GLASS, of Small, Maynard & Co., will on April 1 become manager of the book sales department of the Automobile Blue Book Publishing Co.

PERIODICAL NOTES

The Literary Digest is heading a movement to raise one million dollars for the relief of the starving children of Belgium. There are 1,250,000 of these children under 17 years of age directly dependent upon the Commission for Relief in Belgium and it is estimated that $12 a year per child will check their present slow starvation. The Digest itself heads its fund with a $6000 contribution and further pledges itself to turn over to the Commission every cent received, without deductions for postage or other administrative expenses.

British Supremacy is a new English weekly, which made its initial appearance in December. It advocates "British supremacy at sea, on land, in the air, and in the markets of the world." It is a dignified, well-printed octavo in two columns, dealing with notes on parliamentary work, character sketches, book reviews, industrial notes, etc., published by the Aldine Publishing Company, London, and supplied in this country thru the International News Company. Its retail price is 20 cents; subscription price, $9.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

ALL OF THE seven one-cent papers of Philadelphia have increased their price to two cents.

THE BOOKSELLER who fails to display the new Houghton Mifflin war book colored poster is overlooking a mighty good silent salesman.

THE WHITMAN PUBLISHING COMPANY announce that they will publish "King Gum Drop"—the only new Elizabeth Gordon book for 1917. They also have an attractive line of children's books and novelty publications.

THE BOARD OF TRADE of the American Booksellers' Association, at the meeting on Tuesday, voted a resolution extending the sympathy of the association to Eugene L. Herr, its treasurer, for the death of his son.

ON JANUARY 29 the firm of Robert Adams, of Fall River, Mass., celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of its book and stationery business, which still continues under the name of its original founder.

THE UBIQUITOUS TORCHY has "gone and done it"—he's married. How, when, where and why this happened to Sewell Ford's slangy office boy hero is related in "Wilt Thou, Torchy," to be published February 10 by E. J. Clode.

ROBERT M. MCBRIDE & CO. announce for immediate publication "The Effective Small Home," by Lilian Bayliss Green, for many years editor of the "Little House Department" of the Ladies' Home Journal. Mrs. Green is now engaged in the rather unusual profession of consulting interior decorator.

A VOCATIONAL COURSE in Russian and Scandinavian contemporary literature for booksellers, librarians and students of journalism and literature will be given at the College of the City of New York by Dr. Louis Sigmund Friedland. The first session will begin February 9

ELIZABETH DEJEAN'S NEW NOVEL, "The Tiger's Coat," will be published early in the spring by Bobbs-Merrill. It appeared serially in one of the leading monthly magazines. It is not a story of the jungle, but of modern American life, the scene set in a city that lies somewhere west of Chicago and east of Denver.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of a new novel by Robert Hichens will be a happy surprise to his admirers who have not heard from him for over three years. His latest novel, "In the Wilderness," demonstrates again that peculiar genius of his for "interpreting places." The home scenes are laid in London, but there is a wonderful background of Greece and Constantinople. It is published by Stokes.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish in February "Business Competition and the Law," by Gilbert Howard Montague who, as counsel for the American Manufacturers' Export Association, recently addressed the Senate Anti-Trust Commerce Committee, at its request, to explain the workings of the Webb bill, which purposes to encourage American export trade.

THE MACMILLAN CO.'S first novel of the new year is to be Clemence Dane's "Regiment of Women," announced for January 31st. A story of life in a school for girls in which the dominating personality is a woman of extreme selfishness, who holds a peculiar fascination not only for her pupils but for many of her associates on the teaching staff. Her effect on the lives of these people makes up the story.

SINCE SINCLAIR LEWIS, author of "Our Mr. Wrenn" and "The Trail of the Hawk," kicked over his job in a New York publishing office a little over a year ago and struck off on his own to "free lance it" he has been busy on what bids fair to be an even better novel than its thoroly worth while predecessors. "The Job"—announced for February by Harper—is the story of the day-by-day life of a woman on the job, in the world of offices and in love.

"MENDEL" is the title of a new novel by Gilbert Cannan, announced for future publication by Doran. The book is said to be a story of London artist life. Its hero is a young Polish Jew who, teaching himself painting, is carried by his talent thru many circles of society. Plunged into the hot-house atmosphere of Bohemia he is eventually saved to an appreciation of the real meaning of art and love and beauty.

DON MARQUIS' LATEST BOOK, "Hermione," is peculiarly suitable for a Valentine's Day gift, but just to make a good thing even better D. Appleton & Co. prepared this week a special Valentine band which will be sent to booksellers on application. It is a white band edged with red and with two red hearts in such a position as to fold on the backbone of the book. The parts of the band which fold over the sides of the book bear appropriate Valentine sayings by Hermione in Don Marquis' handwriting.

THE STEWART & KIDD CO. has issued "Plays and Players: Leaves from a Critic's Scrap Book," a new volume of criticisms of plays and papers on acting, playmaking, and other dramatic problems, by Walter Prichard Eaton. The volume begins with plays produced as far back as 1910, and brings the record down to the current year. One section is devoted to American plays, one to foreign plays acted on our stage, one to various revivals of Shakespeare. The remainder of the book is given over to various discussions of the actor's art, of new movements in our theater, etc.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. have increased the price of the Stories All Children Love Series from $1.25 to $1.35 per volume. The next issue in this series will be Kingsley's "Water-Babies," which will be charmingly illustrated in color, by Maria L. Kirk. "Pinocchio" and "Robinson Crusoe" were the holiday additions to the list. The price of the Lippincott Farm Manuals is to be increased from $1.50 to $1.75 per volume. This standard series has been adopted as a text in seventy-five per cent. of the agricultural colleges and schools of the United States. Another advance in price is that of $1.00 per volume for the Variorum Shakespeare.

THE L. E. WATERMAN CO. warns dealers in their pens that the trade, especially at present in New York City, is being visited by a young man, pretending to be a representative of the L. E. Waterman Co., who offers to insure the dealer's stock of Waterman's Ideal fountain pens against theft, at a rate of $10 per year. The man (or men) evidently carries with him keys made to fit Waterman's Ideal fountain pen showcases. Upon getting a dealer's interest in the insurance plan, he starts to inspect the stock in order to list it up, and is frequently left alone to do this, which affords ample opportunity for pilfering the stock. There are no such authorized insurance agents for the Waterman Co., other than regular salesmen.

THE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS, of the Eighth Circuit, has handed down a decision in favor of the Blackwell-Wielandy Book & Stationery Company, of St. Louis, Mo., in the suit by the Irving-Pitt Manufacturing Company, to restrain the Blackwell-Wielandy Company from continuing the manufacture of certain loose leaf devices. Briefly stated the plaintiff's device consists of a curved metal which assumes the ordinary shape of the back of a book and constitutes a spring. Some time ago the Irving-Pitt Co. secured a decision against the Macmillan Co. in a similar case, which decision was upheld upon appeal. Then followed a series of suits, of which the Blackwell-Wielandy case is said to have been the first to be decided against the Irving-Pitt Co.

A RECENT DECISION of the New York Supreme Court of interest to advertisers concerns the title to art material used in advertising prepared by the agent. In December, 1915, the Rubberset Co. decided to change its advertising agent and instructed the Federal Agency, which was then handling the account, to turn over what cuts, drawings, etc., it had in its possession. This the Federal Agency refused to do, alleging that an oral agreement existed by the terms of which such property should remain in its possession should the Rubberset Co. transfer its account. The Rubberset Co. then obtained a sheriff's writ of replevin and by means of it obtained the material in question. The company was then called upon to justify the issuance of this writ. Counsel for the Federal Agency maintained that the material seized represented a definite amount of time, energy and ingenuity expended, for which the agency was liable to get no recompense if the account were transferred. The court, however, overruled the agency's claim and allowed the seizure by the Rubberset Co.

BUSINESS NOTES

CORNING, N. Y.—The book and stationery store of Wm. E. Kling was damaged by fire recently.

HAMILTON, ONT.—It is stated that W. F. Gay, bookseller and stationer at Hamilton, Ontario, is closing up business.

NEW LONDON, O.—F. K. Starbird, bookseller, stationer and druggist, recently sustained a loss by fire.

NEW YORK CITY.—Samuel Lassar, bookseller and stationer, at 65 Rivington Street, has been succeeded by the P. & F. Stationery Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—G. A. Baker & Co., successors to C. Gerhardt & Co., and the Lexington Book Shop, formerly at 120 East 59th Street, are now located at 10 East 39th Street, New York.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Uplift Publishing Co., publishers of special educational books, etc., removed, February 1, from 12th and Race streets to 5253 Germantown Avenue. It is of interest that the company has chanced upon the old site of the home of Christopher Sauer, who printed the first Bibles made in America; also that this same property is a part of the original Wister estate, on which is situated the birthplace of Owen Wister.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—New quarters have just been occupied at 609 Mission Street by the local branch of the Macmillan Company, which was formerly located in the H. S. Crocker Building. The new place is nicely fitted up for the accommodation of visitors and carries a large stock.

SPOKANE, WASH.—The "Varsity" store at Spokane University has changed hands, Burroughs Brother transferring it to Percy Simpson. The store carries a line of confectionery, books, and varieties designed for student use.

VAN WERT, OHIO.—Snyder's Bazaar is a new bookselling concern. Mrs. J. M. Snyder is the manager.

The very modern heroine is married to a man who has plenty of money. They lead the usual life of fashion on which the author vents his sarcasm. Celia falls in love with her husband but will not admit it even to herself. When he announces that he is ruined and suggests that she divorce him, she loses her temper, hunts for a home in the tenement district and finds one. She does the housework and shows her husband that they can live on his wages. Alfred likes it so well that he conceals the fact that he is becoming prosperous again. She suspects that he is deceiving her, but her love gets the better of her temper and they are able to settle their differences happily.

When Aunt Myra closed her eyes on her sad and bitter life, she left a will giving Mary three tests to judge men by, and $50,000 provided she never married. Nothing daunted Mary took the money and started in an original way to use the tests. She admired her aunt's judgment about lots of things, and so decided that if she loved a man who passed the tests, he would be worth the price. He would be, Mary—but be careful!

GOOD BOOK MAKING vs. THE OTHER KIND

Most publishers prefer to maintain a high standard of quality in their books, especially when the cost is no higher. The following from the author of a book which we recently manufactured in its entirety illustrates the point:

"The books have reached me, and I want to thank you for the personal interest you have taken in putting out such an attractive volume. It seems to me to be about the last word in book-making art. I am more than pleased with the appearance of the book. Every suggested change which I made in the proof has been faithfully and correctly carried into the book. I appreciate the kindness you have shown in looking after the matter in such a careful way."

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in JANUARY, 1917

This Reference List includes and classifies all books entered in the annotated Weekly Record during the past month, together with additional titles not therein listed, covering law and medicine, many government documents, university publications, pamphlets, and books of limited character. All works are here entered under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in CAPS and SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. Under subject entries asterisks () designate books previously entered in the Weekly Record, in most cases with descriptive annotation.*

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in caps, Q, O, D, etc.; for books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.
